Algeria and Palestine

The victory of the national liberation war in Algeria points to the liberation of Palestine

Over the past 4 months in Gaza, Israel has deliberately slaughtered tens of thousands of civilians with the help of U.S. weapons and money. Extreme shortages of food and water, together with a lack of sanitation and shelter has put hundreds of thousands at risk. With the help of the lies and complicity of the mass media, Israel is orchestrating mass starvation.

The Nazis in 1942 systematically starved the 500,000 men, women and children in the Warsaw Ghetto. Israel intends to exceed this number.

Since Israel was created in 1948 as a colonial fortress of the US and Europe in the strategic and oil-rich Middle East, Israel has engaged in more than a ►

Winning on the street and in the information war

A Palestinian resistance fighter in Gaza (above) destroys an Israeli armored vehicle, while looking relaxed, as if he does this every day. Our culture, here in the U.S., is dominated by news of which celebrities are fucking each other. Meanwhile, in the Arab world, youth are watching daily videos of real and important events, such as this. (Source: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=SWZwb3t1rDc>)

"The French in Algeria killed between a million and a million and a half Algerians, and eventually they had to leave. Killing an indigenous population that is totally rooted to the land and is fighting, not for religion, is fighting for its homes, fighting for its land, doesn't work, and eventually, the colonial power has to leave."

► dozen wars and an unending series of massacres and brutality against the native Palestinians, who were driven from their lands and herded into squalid ghettos. But, in spite of the lies of our mass media and the manipulation and "shadow banning" of social media, the truth is emerging, and the worldwide ►

► protests of millions are making clear that Israel, as a Jewish supremacist state based on Apartheid, will be replaced with a democratic state with equal rights for all.

The path forward for the Palestinian solidarity movement must be based on the lessons of successful struggle against Apartheid in South Africa, as well as the national liberation struggles of Ireland against Britain, Algeria against France, and Vietnam against France and then the U.S.

In all of these struggles, a key role was played by the war for public opinion in the oppressing country. In the case of Palestine, it is U.S. imperialism and its European allies which are the oppressing countries—as Israel is essentially a U.S. colony. Hence, what activists do here counts—a lot. ■

Why are we so isolated?

How can we overcome our isolation and bring the truth about Palestine to millions?

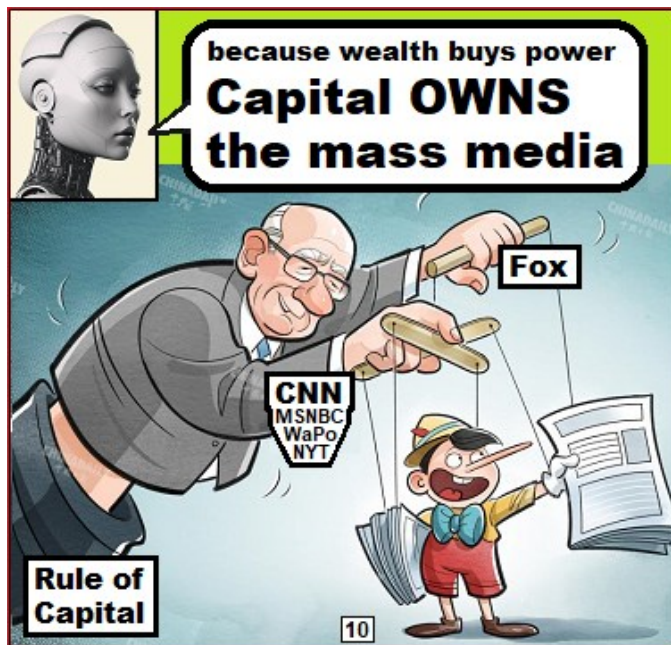

From a recent public facebook thread:

Original post:

I'm having a real hard time, seeing so many people just somehow ignoring what's happening. How is life going on as normal? How is this not a huge effing deal? It shouldn't be possible that while an entire people are being straight up demolished, that the world can just go on like nothing's happening.

Excerpts from 75 comments in reply:

I feel like this everyday too. I eavesdrop into people's conversation when I'm out and I hear no one ever talking about it. . . . It sucks to feel this helpless ■ I feel the exact same way. I've felt disappointment, frustration, etc., in everyone in my circle and on social media. They aren't necessarily pro Israel, but just oblivious. ■ Right!? When I post on my wall/story, I get very few responses. They are usually from friends not in the US. At best, I think Facebook gives them low visibility. ■ I feel the same way. You are not alone. ■ It's like living in a split-reality. So disorienting and sad. ■ I keep asking myself the same question. How do we keep going on like everything is fine? ■ We definitely need new people. ■ I feel this and don't have any answers. It all makes me beyond sad. ■ ditto ■ I agree ■ What's wrong with people! What is happening is worse than a horror show. No outrage? ■ Our society is extremely atomized and people don't know their own power. We have a lot of work to do to rebuild a fighting anti-war movement.

■ I blame the indifference on corporate news, where nothing is explained in depth, the interests of the ruling class determine how everything is phrased, and progressive opinions are dismissed. ■ It's truly surreal ■ I feel the same way, I'm heartbroken ❤️ ■ Yes that's how I feel too !!!!! ■ Same here ■

Comment by Ben:

Since the capitalist media will never tell people the truth—we need to do it ourselves! We need a city-wide campaign to flood schools and workplaces with leaflets as well as to help organize for large and powerful mass actions.

Activists with tech skills must also recognize the urgent and growing need for a public database of journalism and public comment to help us better coordinate and organize our efforts in the online war of ideas in order to bring the truth to millions.

Previous leaflets (scan to read):

(# 1) Apartheid has no right to exist / The "Two State" solution has always been a fraud / Hamas or the working class? / From Ukraine to Palestine, Occupation is a crime / Social Media and information war (# 3) The war at home, how Palestinians are shattering decades of illusions about the brutal imperialism behind our "democracy" / How do we win the support of the Israeli working class? (# 4) How does this end? / What is modern imperialism? (# 5) The weapon of transparency / Letter from a reader: the language of our self-deceit
